Joint Elks Flag Day Observance At Belle Glade Lodge June 10

Stressing the need for a revival of "the fervent patriotism that won our freedom" Lee Berryhill, Exalted Ruler of Belle Glade Elks Lodge, calls for a community-wide salute to the Flag in observance of Flag Day.

Mr. Berryhill said that Belle Glade, Pahokee and Clewiston Elks Lodges will hold a joint service for honoring the Flag on the 145th anniversary of its adoption by the Continental Congress in 1777. Elks Flag Day observance will be held in Belle Glade, at the Lodge, on Sunday, June 10th, at 2:00 p. m. He invites all residents of the Lake area to participate and also to display the Flag before every home and place of business on Flag Day.

"The habits of apathy and complacency weaken the spirit of patriotism," the Elks' leader said. "The fervent patriotism that won our freedom is the only thing that will save it. We should strengthen our spirit of allegiance by practicing and displaying the flag."

Exalted Ruler Berryhill pointed P. C. Dooley to plan the Lodge sponsored Flag Day program and work with officers of Pahokee and Clewiston Elks Lodges as a joint service.

Mr. Berryhill said that his lodge will be one of 200 Elks Lodges across the nation conducting Flag Day programs. He pointed out that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has been observing Flag Day for more than half a century.

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
Zeko Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night, reported he had been visiting among his congregation ever night for a week and had a sore throat from hollering loud enough to get heard above their TV sets. He said he wasn't even ashore if some of the members would recollect he was there.

On one member's home, he said he suggested they have a short family prayer after he took his departure and the mother ask if he couldn't hold off a few minutes till Wagon Train was over.
But the good Parson admitted TV was here to stay, said he was learning to live with it. He predicted the day was coming when big groups of churches would chip in and hire one minister to preach on TV for all of them. He figured it would save money and the savings would be used to put ping pong tables in the Sunday School Department.
But the bad news, allowed the Parson, was his doctor telling him he was getting ulcers. He said all his members was work now, 40 was working for him and 200 was working again him, but they weren't working.

He said him and Zude Rinder got out the records for the last 5 years to see how the work load was. The records wasn't good. They showed that 10 percent was pushing the wagon and 90 percent was just riding. It was that 90 percent, he allowed, that was giving him ulcers. He said Rufe told him he didn't have no ulcers himself but he was getting tired blood and, after looking at them records, he figured he was just pooped from pushing.

The Parson said him and Rufe decided to make a little survey to find out what that 90 percent of unemployed church workers was doing. They found 40 percent was putting over someone that had took his place at the church. These members couldn't recollect what it was but they claimed they was so upset they couldn't git over it. Another 8 percent was setting at home keeping score on how many times the Parson had come to visit. One member reported, was keeping score on a blackboard in the kitchen. About 22 percent was figuring out how to git rid of the preacher. The Parson told the fellers they didn't have nothing special again him, but getting rid of a preacher was just one of their aims in life. He said ever church had some of them kind of members. The other 20 percent, he reported was just wearing the varnish off the pews. He allowed as how this was hard on the pews.

To sum up the survey, he told the fellers, his ulcers was here to stay.
Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Survival Hike for Teenagers!

A Cross-Florida survival hike by a group of carefully selected teenagers to emphasize physical fitness was announced today by Ross Allen, noted herpetologist and survival instructor.

The project, considered the first by the nation for the 13 to 18 year old age group, will be jointly sponsored by Allen and Florida's Silver Springs.

According to present plans the 12 man group, including Allen and one other instructor, will start the rugged 132 mile trek at Port Orange in Volusia County and finish at Yankee town in Levy County.

Allen expects the hike to take some twenty days of walking and camping in the semi-tropical wilderness of Central Florida. The group will stay in the woods, avoiding highways and roads and live entirely off the land.

The only modern equipment they will carry will be the clothes and boots they wear, a small first aid kit, mosquito netting, compass knife, which the water purifying tablets and a small amount of salt.

They will improvise shelters, beds, cooking utensils, rafts for fording streams and in the strict sense, attempt a modern safari much like their pioneer fathers of 150 years ago.

Allen, who has been conducting overnight and weekend survival hikes for Boy and Girl Scouts and other youth groups over the past few years, believes the hike will demonstrate that "modern youth, given the opportunity, are just as capable of survival as their pioneer counterparts."

He believes it is important in "this modern age of space and technology" to emphasize, to install many of the traits of "group participation, physical stamina, and rugged determination that made this Democracy the greatest nation in the world."

He scoffs at the idea that the modern youth is soft, for as he says, "given the opportunity, the goal, and the determination, under similar circumstances, today's youth is stronger, healthier, and better adjusted in every aspect than his pioneer ancestor."

He believes in his survival work and devotes countless hours to youth training in his

"off-hours" as owner of the Ross Allen Reptile Institute at Silver Springs.

The cross state hike from the Atlantic Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico is expected to cover a distance of some 112 airline miles, but Allen expects the actual hiking distance, counting detours around the larger lakes to cover some 152 miles.

The group will cover an anticipated average of ten to twelve miles a day including hunting for food and making camp. They will eat berries, palm and various other forms of vegetation and the smaller non-game animals including snakes and armadillos.

Throughout the next few weeks day-long training hikes will be conducted with volunteer groups. From these groups the final selection of the ten boys to make the cross state hike will be selected.

F.F.A. Boys Know Sugar Too!

We heard the speech below given by the author at the Pahoehoe Rotary Club, and was so impressed with the knowledge of the subject, delivery and emphasis given that we think you will like to know that our FFA boys "have what it takes" and to compliment Madeo on his performance as a prize winner in contest. He delivered the talk without notes, or manuscript.

SUGAR CANE FFA SPEECH 1962

by Mead Maxwell

Mr. Chairman, Judges, Advisors and Fellow FFA members:

The subject of my talk is sugar cane. Principally, I want to talk about sugar cane in Florida. But in order to do that, it is best to go back to our earliest records of sugar and sugar cane.

Many of you may not realize the important part that sugar cane has played in our world history, economy and everyday living.

The origin of sugar is lost. It is generally conceded that sugar was produced from sugar cane in a primitive manner in India centuries before the Christian Era. As time went on, sugar cane was carried westward.

Through the wanderings of the Arabs, sugar cane moved to Persia, Egypt, and westward along the north African coast. Alexander the Great, in 300 B. C., brought cane from India to Europe. The Moors carried it to Spain during their invasion and initiated the cultivation of sugar cane there in 715 A. D.

Sugar cane was first introduced into the Western Hemisphere in 1493 when Columbus, on his second voyage to the New World, brought sugar cane to Santo Domingo. The first small mill was established in the Dominican Republic in 1509.

Sugar cane was introduced into Cuba in 1511. Many small mills sprang up all over the island, but some of them later combined for better business, and many of these companies still exist today.

Menendez probably first introduced sugar into Florida soon after he founded St. Augustine in 1565. During the English period in Florida sugar cane was manufactured on a commercial scale at the New Smyrna Colony between 1767 and 1776. Between 1850 and 1860, Major Robert Gamble of Palmetto County established a mill for sugar production, but the war between the states, and fire, put an end to this enterprise.

In the United States census for 1880, Florida was credited with 1,669 hogheads, or 2,002, 800 pounds of sugar. It is generally believed that this amount included the first year's output of the Gamble mill.

The Florida State Department of Agriculture was created in 1889 and in that year a systematic record of sugar cane and sugar production was established. A record of all farm statistics has been kept to the present. Ever since the ceding of Florida to the United States, interest in crops suitable for this area has been continuous. Because of the semi-tropical climate, sugar cane has been one of the crops that gave the most promise.

From the early 1880's to the 1920's, sporadic attempts were made to develop its culture in the Everglades. These attempts failed, mostly because of the lack of water control, unsuitable cane varieties, and cane diseases. Present sugar operations in the Glades were founded on work done by E. E. Bryant. Later, Mr. Bryant sold to B. G. Dahlberg who formed the Southern Sugar Company.

In 1930 this company went into receivership. From that, the United States Sugar Corporation came into being. Their plans was to operate at least three mills and produce an unlimited amount of sugar.

The government imposed a sugar quota in 1934, and again in 1937 and 1948. This made it impossible for a domestic sugar producer to undertake any large scale expansion. Another provision of the Sugar Act gave the Secretary of Agriculture means by which he could effectively control the price of sugar.

In 1954 there were three companies engaged in sugar production in Florida. They were the United States Sugar Corporation, with headquarters in Clewiston, the Fellsme Sugar Producers with headquarters in Fellsme, and the Okelana Refinery with headquarters in South Bay.

With acreage restrictions, the sugar people were forced to make their allotted acres produce more sugar. Consequently, Florida now has one of the lowest man hours per ton of cane of any area in the world.

With the rise of Fidel Castro in Cuba and his admission of loyalty to the communist party and the Soviet Union, the United States government saw fit to discontinue trade with Cuba.

Florida has produced her allotted amount of sugar, but it is the hope of our cane farmers that inasmuch as Cuba no longer ships sugar to us we will be given an allotment equal to the amount we are capable of producing. At the present time this is not the case. When the quota was taken from Cuba, our Department of Agriculture prorated the tonnage to Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, and Mexico.

In anticipation, the men who grow sugar cane in Florida have extended themselves. There are 84,200 acres now under cultivation, and 73,200 acres being prepared for sugar production. It is estimated that there are 200,000 to 250,000 acres of land left in Florida suitable for growing sugar cane.

The value of the mills, land, crops, and harvesting equipment in South Florida at the present time is approximately $128,000,000. This figure is in connection with seven major companies in production now or will be in the near future.

As it stands now, ten million tons of sugar per year is the consumptive estimate of the United States. The wish of the people in this business in Florida is to be allowed to produce for our consumption an increased amount of this ten million tons. In order to get a quota increase, Congress will have to enact new legislation. And new, favorable legislation is what the sugar industry in Florida needs.

There is a reason for my choosing to talk on this subject. The Future Farmers of America, Pahoehoe Chapter, own eight acres of sugar cane. It has been interesting to plant and care for this cane. Anything that is done to promote the value of the sugar cane crop in South Florida will directly affect all of the FFA members as it will every individual in this area.

CARD OF THANKS

To my many friends, who would like to say, your kindness and sympathy is more deeply appreciated than any words of thanks can express. We especially wish to extend our thanks and gratitude to the doctors and nurses at the hospital and to the police and sheriff's Dept.

Refresh Your Memory..... And Mind Your Manners

This is the first in a series of Etiquette Columns to be in the Belle Glade Herald each week just to refresh our memory and help us lead a more gracious life in our community.
If there is a topic that you would like discussed in this column please drop a card in care of this paper and we will try to answer it for you.
Today's TOPIC..... INVITATIONS
Formal invitation, engraved or handwritten on conservative paper, are sent out on a number of occasions for the formal dinner, the debut, the formal dance, and the official luncheon or reception. They are written in the third person and are sent approximately two weeks ahead of time. A formal invitation should be given in this way, but not more, as the occasion might be forgotten with more advance notice.
INFORMAL invitations for the informal or semi-formal dinner parties, luncheons, teas, cocktails, buffet suppers, and children's parties may be extended by visiting card, informal or may be telephoned.
In the lower left hand corner of formal invitation and quite often the informal invitation are the letters, R. S. V. P. which means PLEASE REPLY. This is a MUST and should be done either by mail or by phone. Many times there is a date under the letters along with the address phone number to let you know that the hostess or hostesses must know by that date how many are planning to attend so they can make their final arrangements.
It is considered unforgivable not to answer an invitation and so keep your hostess on tenterhooks. It is also considered very rude to wait until the day of the occasion to answer the invitation as this should be done as quickly as possible after receiving it. Even if a person is unable to attend, it is considered up and keep him from attending, he should still call and confirm the invitation as it is much easier to plan for many than not to plan for enough and the hostess then has to hasten and make arrangements as a result of the untimeliness.
Mind your manners until next week, I will be watching you for a topic.....
Remember the Vanderbilts' complete book of Etiquette.

Toxic Pesticides Safe If Handled With Due Care

Pesticides, for the past decade or more, have been as much of a farm tool as the tractor, fertilizer or crop rotation. Like these other tools, they must be used with care and treated with respect. And on the farm, they are. Accidents from their use are far less than from bumps and bruises, careless handling of machinery, sprains, falls or infections from neglected cuts and abrasions.
But there have been deaths from pesticides—most tragically, the great majority from young children. These deaths, and those of adults, should not have occurred, and steps must be taken to prevent further fatalities.
One proposal has been to institute a permit system to regulate the distribution of highly toxic pesticides. But those most familiar with both the problem and the products—scientists, physicians and chemical manufacturers—agree that the proposed regulations would not contain the perils of misuse, improper handling, storage and disposal of empty containers from which these deaths derived.
Education, it is agreed, is the only effective and enduring solution. Accordingly, the pesticide industry in cooperation with state officials has launched an all-out, statewide information program on the safe handling and use of pesticide chemicals. This program will reach dealers, farmers, growers, homeowners—every individual in the state who can be reached through the media of the press, magazines, radio, TV, the mails.

Plainly, we are living in a dangerous age. Our needs have developed mechanical and chemical servants of terrible potential—from power tools to high speed vehicles on land and sea and in the air, and from household cleaners to germicides and pesticides. To live without them would be unthinkable. To live with them, we need to grow up.

House Of Prayer Provides Lunches

The House of Prayer, under the leadership of Elder Anna Felder, donated $34.75 to the Lake Shore Elementary School, to purchase hot lunches for some of the underprivileged pupils.

It is a most gratifying experience to watch these youngsters as they enjoy the hot lunches. The principal and teachers sincerely appreciate this worth while project, and hope that other groups and organizations will help us to solve some of the many problems existing in the school.

Summer Dangerous To Travelers

The arrival of summer to most Americans signifies the beginning of the vacation season — a time of carefree relaxation and outdoor activities. Regretably, to a great number it will be a season of tragedy. They will become victims of the annual onslaught of crimes of passion and violence.

According to established seasonal trends, forcible rape will rise approximately 16 per cent above its annual average during the next several weeks. Murder and aggravated assault will climb some 12 per cent each.

A similar increase will be registered in depraved sex attacks on innocent and defenseless children. These figures represent crimes against the person which will become known to police. Untold numbers of victims will remain silent through fear of personal embarrassment.

To a large degree, this shocking picture is an indictment of the careless and unwitting citizenry. Gaining a short respite from the humdrum of everyday duties, countless individuals subject themselves and their families to unnecessary dangers. Many who adhere to some standard of safety at other times seemingly throw precautions to the wind during the summer months. For instance, vacationing travelers, in a congenial mood and good will, are apt to minimize the inherent danger connected with the signalling thumb of a hitchhiker. A hasty benevolent act could place them in the clutches of a vicious killer.

Certainly, great stress should be placed on the abhorrent crimes perpetrated by child molesters. Closing of the school year adds an extra burden to the important roles of parents and guardians in this regard. Children with time on their hands need extraordinary attention and supervision. This should not and cannot be left to public officials. Parents who fail to warn their children to avoid secluded spots, to refuse rides and reject gifts or enticements from strangers are guilty of gross negligence.

Public indifference, long a harbinger of lawlessness, does not decline with the rise of the thermometer.

Lake Shore Patrol Visits The Capitol

Willie Benjamin and James Harris of the Lake Shore High Patrol were happy recipients of trip to Washington, D. C. May 30-June 3. These two patrol boys traveled to Washington via a very scenic route with the rest of the Palm Beach County delegation.

Delegates were provided with a time table pointing out the famous sites along the route of the train.

The delegation was housed at the New Dunbar Hotel in Washington. The first highlight of the trip was a lecture tour of the residential section, and many of the foreign embassies and legations, as well as prominent homes. Stops were made at Jefferson and Lincoln memorials for a visit. The group visited the White House, originally known as the Executive Mansion.

The group also visited the Smithsonian Institute in which they saw an excellent graphic arts display tracing the development of man's achievement in industry. They visited the Archives Building where they saw such thing as the original Declaration of Independence, Bill of Rights, and the Constitution.

The boys were delighted with the aircraft display which was in the Air-craft Building at the rear of the Smithsonian Institute. Some 30 full-sized aircraft were on display. Chief of these planes is the "Spirit of St. Louis," used by Charles Lindberg in his history making trans-Atlantic flight.

Friday, the group visited the Bureau of Printing and Engraving where 6,000 men and women make all kinds of government securities, including the Almighty Dollar.

The students were surrounded by history when they visited Ford's Theater where Lincoln was assassinated. The theater building has been converted into a museum here Lincoln memorial exhibits are on display. Among the exhibits were the old family Bible in which Lincoln signed his name as a boy, the rail that was split by him, as well as a log from the old Lincoln home.

At the Justice Building, a "G-man Tour" was conducted. The groups were able to see how this important force of law does its job. The boys were given a little souvenir by one of the "G" men.

After a group picture, the group toured the Capitol, Congressional Library and the Supreme Court Building.

The afternoon was spent at Washington's famous Zoological Park. Among the many strange animals in captivity there are the White Tiger and the Baby Gorilla.

All was not education, for during the evening the group visited Glen Echo Amusement Park. Twenty-five cents was charged at the gate; however each individual was given five tickets for various rides in the park.

Saturday, the last day of the trip was spent visiting Arlington National Cemetery on the West Bank of the Potomac. The visit was timed so that the students saw the famous "Changing of the Guard" at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Also on this tour were the two Jimma Memorial, and Lee Mansion, the home of General Lee. A tour was also made of Alexandria and Mt. Vernon.

The afternoon was spent in a trip to the Washington Monument. The boys ascended to the top and from the summit they saw a panoramic view of the city.

Guides led the last tour of the day, a trip to the Franciscan Monastery. Returning to Florida were two very tired but happy students. Willie Benjamin and James Harris will long remember this trip.

Trooper Bill says...

DON'T FOLLOW TOO CLOSELY. In 1960, more than 23,000 traffic accidents in Florida were due to drivers who followed too closely to the car ahead. If you can't stop your car quickly, without hitting the car ahead of you when he stops unexpectedly, you are too close. To be safe, stay far enough behind the car ahead to be able to stop under any circumstances. Remember, too close is too late.

Food And Room Rates Up 16% Not Out Of Line Comparably

The traveler today is paying 16 per cent more for a room and from 4 to 12 per cent more for his meals on the roads than he was five years ago, the American Automobile Association said today.

In announcing results of a spot survey of hotels and motels in 20 states, Elmer Jenkins, AAA's national touring director, said the room rate increases ranged from 8 per cent in Maine to 32 per cent in the State of Washington.

The average maximum double rate five years ago was $11.07, the survey showed. Today, it is $12.89. The highest average maximum double rate was noted for Florida ($18.61) and the lowest for Alabama ($9.71). Florida's increase in five years, however, was but 9 per cent.

A similar spot check of restaurants and dining rooms showed that meal prices had increased from 4 to 12 per cent. The 4 per cent increase was noted in the higher-priced meals, while the 12 per cent increase came in the lower price category.

"While these increases may seem startling," Mr. Jenkins said, "they do not appear to be out of line when compared with the five-year increases in the cost of other types of goods and services."

Home Nursing Service In P. B. County

In the last two years, through the efforts of the Palm Beach County Health Department and interested members of the community, a valuable addition was made to the health services in the Glades and southeastern area of the county. This service is designed to provide professional nursing care of the sick at home. There are many bed-ridden and semi-bed-ridden sick people that do not require hospitalization in our already crowded hospitals, but who do require nursing care. These people are convalescing stroke patients who require bed baths or special exercise; they may be cancer patients who need injections for pain, or dressing changes; they may be patients affected with crippling arthritis that need massage or heat treatment; or they might be a patient with any form of long-term illness that requires any type of therapy that can be administered effectively at home. This, of course, includes instruction to the patient and family to help care for themselves and includes the always valuable interest and encouragement vital to a person's recovery.

The personnel for this service are trained public health nurses, members of the Palm Beach County Health Department. The Visiting Nurse Association also provides similar services in the West Palm Beach area.

This valuable service should be requested through the patient's family doctor. It is the doctor's instructions are then carried out by the nurse in the home. Fees for the service by the nurse are charged on a "sliding scale" dependent on the family budget. This service often will enable a patient to leave the hospital sooner, thus decreasing hospital expenses, and provides more hospital beds for acutely ill patients.

The program in the southeast area of the county has progressed well, with a total of 231 home visits during the last six months of 1961. Over half of the patients were over 60 years of age with cardiovascular disease and cancer accounting for nearly one-half of the cases. Physicians in the association are referred 59 per cent of the cases.

The program in the Glades area has been organized for two years but unfortunately, has not been utilized as well. There are, of course, patients who would benefit from this service in the Glades area but to date there have not been many requests. The Glades Home Nursing Board is interested in making the service available to all of the people in the area who would benefit from home nursing care, and this Board invites any inquiries from interested individuals. Services can also be obtained at the Belle Glade Health Department, Phone WY-6-5219 and Pahokee Health Department, Phone 924-7151. Residents in the Lantana to Boca Raton area should contact the Palm Beach County Health Department branch at Delray Beach 378-3210 or West Palm Beach TE 2-2441.

CONGRATULATIONS grads!

The achievements of past years are many and worthy of recognition. But somehow the prospects and possibilities of the coming years seem more important now.

Spring is Garden Time for 4-H'ers

Well-thumbed pages of the seed catalog are among the first signs of spring in 4-H homes across the state where young gardeners abound. Whether it's cabbages or roses they hope to grow, the budding horticulturalists all share the same enthusiasm.

The number of ambitious gardeners this year should reach well over 200,000, predicts the National 4-H Service Committee. The estimate is based on 1961 figures supplied by the state 4-H Club offices.

The 4-H garden award program, administered by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported for the last 17 years by the Farm Equipment Division of Allis-Chalmers, is open to boys and girls from 10 to 21 years old enrolled in a 4-H Club.

Gain Know-How and Cash

Experience gained in the project adds to the business know-how of the "learner" and in many cases adds to the bank account as well, it was pointed out. Profits from roadside stands, selling direct to the local grocer or door-to-door customers have aided countless youngsters in a variety of endeavors.

Vegetables grown for the dinner table or flowers raised to beautify the home have added immeasurably to mutual family benefit and enjoyment, according to the 4-H garden records.

Future careers often open up to the young people who have worked with garden projects over a long period. For example, Jerry Unruh, who will enter Pictured here (from left) are 4-H'ers Donald Weeks, 20, of Terra Haute, Ind., Carolyn Garrison, 18, of Shreveport, La., and Larry Unruh, 17, of Galva, Kans. This trio can't be fooled when it comes to quality and freshness because they are the nation's leading producers and recipients of Allis-Chalmers 4-H garden scholarships. They have a combined total of 28 years of 4-H membership.

Kansas State University next fall, plans to major in horticulture. He not only has raised prize-winning vegetables, but has put aside earnings to help meet college expenses.

Gardening Is Popular. National champions Carolyn Garrison, who was among the 4,000 Lone Star Sisters carrying a garden project last year, and Donald Weeks, a Purdue University junior, one of more than 9,400 Hoosier gardeners, are typical of top-notch producers in the state.

Gardening, it seems, is the ideal project for 4-H'ers no mat-

Senior Girl Scouts Attend Conference

Hostess Scouts in uniforms of early Scout days presided over weekend registration of 188 Senior Girl Scouts at the 3rd annual Senior Conference held May 25-27 at the Beach Club Hotel, Ft. Lauderdale. Scouts from three councils extending from Vero Beach participated in a well-planned program of business meetings, discussion groups, and social activities.

The Girls could choose two of the four discussion topics and they reported lively, stimulating interchange of ideas and information. Conference theme was "Frontiers to Friendship." Discussion topics were World Friendship; Friendship should begin in the home and community, and with other nationality groups within our own country as a basis to extending it to other people; World Peace; Why cannot divergent political ideas exist without armed conflict, if different religions can get along together. Senior opportunities: For camps, trips, international exchange programs, etc. their availability, requirements, and values; and Troop Triangle; The girl, patrol leader, troop leader relationship. This group also discussed the role of the older senior in scouting, and the counselor-in-training and leader-in-training programs.

Saturday afternoon schedule included a guided tour on the triple-deck "Jungle Queen" on the Intercoastal Waterway, and two hours of free time, when the hotel pool was very popular. A banquet supper was followed by a campfire on the beach.

Belle Glade girls from Troop 133 who attended were delegates DeEtte Crandell, Johnnie Nutt, and Mary Lou Baulerson. A banquet supper was followed by a campfire on the beach.

World Wars 1&2-Korean Orphans Entitled To Education-By 'Uncle'

A large number of eligible young people in Florida are failing to take advantage of the War Orphans Education program because of a wide-spread misunderstanding of the provisions of the law. Rufus H. Wilson, Manager of the VA Regional Office in St. Petersburg, said today that a check on a large number of war orphans on record with the VA revealed that they discontinued their educational pursuits after finishing high school because they thought they would be eligible for war orphans benefits only if they continued in schools of higher learning.

The law was enacted to provide a program of financial aid for the education of young men and women whose parents were killed in World War I, World War II, Korea, and some peacetime veterans — died of injuries of diseases resulting directly from their military service.

Wilson attributed the trouble to misinterpretation of the wording of the law which says: "The purpose of the law is to give those young people an opportunity to get the 'education' they otherwise might have obtained had their parents lived." In addition to an "educational" curriculum or any combination of school subjects which will lead to a specific "vocational goal" — such as bookkeeper or machinist.

"Preparation for various occupations in the vocational and technical fields also is a vital factor in educating youth for today's highly competitive business and industrial field, Wilson stated.

So that no eligible Florida war orphans will miss the opportunity to become more gainfully employed, Wilson urged that those knowing of any youth whose parent died as a result of military service encourage them, their parent or guardian, to contact the VA Regional Office in St. Petersburg for more details concerning their eligibility and the opportunities available under the program.

Of the 575 war orphans in training in Florida, 66 are in business and vocational schools training to become qualified secretaries, clerks, beauticians, radio and TV technicians, refrigeration and air conditioning mechanics, etc.

With the fast-growing use of electronic data processing by business and industry, one of the largest demands is for qualified punch card operators, Wilson pointed out.
